

About the Workers Health Centre

Established in the early 1970s, the Workers Health Centre is Australia's oldest workers health and safety service. Over the years it has helped tens of thousands of workers.

The Workers Health Centre is used by trade unions, employers, government departments, local councils and community organisations.

The WHC provides services to some of Australia's largest companies and organisations. Our clients include: Australia Post; Australian Defence Industries; Boeing; BIC Ltd; Freight Corp; Historic Houses Trust; Lendlease; Multiplex; NRMA; Nestle Australia; NSW Cancer Council; Qantas; State Library of NSW; State Rail; Sydney City Council; Sydney Ferries; Tip Top; University of Sydney.

Accurate and up-to-date information

The Workers Health Centre has an extensive library of workplace health and safety publications and resources. We can provide the most current and reliable information with access to international databases and the Internet.

If you need more information about a health and safety problem you can phone for advice or call between 9am and 5pm Monday to Friday, or email admin@workershealth.com.au

How to contact the Workers Health Centre

2nd floor, 12 Railway Street, Lidcombe NSW 2141. The building is located a short walk from Lidcombe railway station and street parking is available.

Phone 9749 7666 during business hours or email admin@workershealth.com.au

Or visit our website at www.workershealth.com.au

Specialists in occupational health and safety

Workers Health Centre

Workers Health Centre services

The Workers Health Centre provides a comprehensive range of high quality services including:

Occupational medicine – our treating doctors understand workplace injuries and illnesses. Patients are treated sympathetically and skillfully.

Related clinical services

– our consultant psychologist and acupuncturist/massage therapist can see patients at the centre.

Hearing assessments

– our audiologist provides comprehensive hearing tests for workers exposed to industrial noise.

Rehabilitation/injury management

– our team of rehabilitation case managers include occupational therapists, rehabilitation counsellors and physiotherapists. We offer comprehensive programs to offer a safe return to work or retraining.

Occupational hygiene and workplace safety audits

– our qualified staff can identify, evaluate and make practical recommendations for the control of hazards in the workplace, such as chemicals and manual handling. We can also help with particular industry problems. Our experienced staff have undertaken hundreds of successful workplace inspections. These are carried out in consultation with workers and management.

Training

Our WorkCover-accredited trainers are skilled in delivering a wide range of occupational health and safety courses including OH&S consultation training. Phone the centre or see our website for more information about our training courses.

WorkCover accreditation

The Workers Health Centre is accredited by the NSW government through WorkCover to provide rehabilitation services and occupational health and safety training.

Payment options

Many of our services are covered either through bulk billing or workers compensation. Training and workplace assessments are priced very competitively. Discounted rates apply for affiliated organisations.